

EW Nutrition acquires Feed Quality and Pigment business

01 March 2023 | News

Acquires Novus International giving EW Nutrition ownership of a feed preservative, a feed mill processing aid, feed ingredient and a state-of-the-art production facility in Spain.

Acquires Novus International giving EW Nutrition ownership of a feed preservative, a feed mill processing aid, feed ingredient and a state-of-the-art production facility in Spain.

Global animal nutrition solutions provider to the feed industry, EW Nutrition with its South East Asia/Pacific headquarter in Singapore has acquired the Feed Quality and Pigments business from the US based Novus International, Inc. Under the terms of the agreement, EW Nutrition becomes the owner of world-renowned brands such as Santoquin® feed preservative, SURF® ACE, a feed mill processing aid, and feed ingredient Agrado®. The acquisition also gives EW Nutrition ownership of a state-of-the-art production facility in Constant, Spain.

"This transaction will further reinforcing EW Nutrition's global market position, and increasing its product portfolio and geographical reach," says Michael Gerrits, Managing Director of EW Nutrition. "The products acquired will further support EW Nutrition's mission to mitigate the impact of antimicrobial resistance by providing comprehensive animal nutrition solutions."

Dan Meagher, President and CEO of Novus International, Inc., explains that the company has a long term interest on resources, core platforms and emerging technologies, with a special focus on gut health. Acquisition is a significant milestone and we now shift our focus to energies on developing new, innovative technologies into meaningful nutrition solutions for our customers."